hi, extra good luck with the xfactor and well done for raising awareness for our brave guys and gals. I am a forces wife, my husband served 21 years, he left last March but we both still work with the forces in Germany, my husband with NAAFI and myself with Red Shield Defence Services (Salvation Army) out here in Germany.

We are attending a fund raising event this Friday in aid of help for heroes, so we hope that is a success and we raise funds.

All the best with future events and I will keep a lookout for any ideas etc to help.

Thank you all for being behind us.

I got to say a bit thank you to Donna who has wrote the song for us, she is working so hard to make it so special. She has written music for JLS, and it was only through a phone call to Austin for a reading that we got to know about her. He told her we had auditioned for X Factor and we were doing it for the William Aldridge Foundation that she offered her help. It must be so hard for her as we cannot sing, but we are all getting there.

If we got the chance to sing it on stage.....well you will see how tallented she is.....if not I can see it coming out as a charity CD, so either way I think you will all hear it.
Well fingers crossed that we will get the phone call

Sue,

You are all working your socks off and Donna's rewritten words to a very famous song are so poignant - It's simply beautiful and sure to be released as a charity CD. I already know a huge number of people who would buy it!!

I'm keeping fingers, toes and everything else crossed that you get that call. All your hard work will have paid off.

You are an amazing group of people to be supporting the Foundation and the memory of my beautiful, brave son.

Thank you from the bottom of my heart

Lucy xxxx

Lucy I feel it is a honour to do this in memory of your brave son William, he is always in my thoughts. It is well worth the effort and time we are putting into this, as long as we can get as much publicity as we can for the foundation it will be well worth it.
